

WHO AM I?

Over the next ten months, we are going to learn about multiple individuals who have been labeled simply as "good" or "bad". However, we know life is far more complex than that. In the following assignment, I am going to ask you to answer some simple questions, and follow them up with a more complex response to the overarching question I am posing to you: "Who are you"?

* If you choose not to answer any aspects of this, you must explain to me your reasoning. For example, if you don't know what your ethnicity is, then you can write, "I don't know".
